DELEHANTY ARRIVES

Mighty Batter Says He Hasn't Signed for Next Year.

THINKS WELL OF MANAGER LOFTUS

Remarkable Golfing by Amateur

Champion, Travis.

SPORTS IN GENERAL

Edward J. Delehanty, the reputed captain of next season's Washington club, arrived in this city yesterday, and, with his family, is registered at the Oxford. Mr. Delehanty is a great follower of the ponies, and the races at Benning have brought the renowned base ball player to Washington at this time. He will remain in Washington until the end of the season, and then he himself to his home in Ohio.

When seen this morning by an Evening Star reporter Mr. Delehanty refused to confirm the report that he is to play in Washington next season, but there is no doubt that the great batter has already placed his name to a contract and will be a Senator next season.

"I know about the base ball situation," said Delehanty, "is that many of the National League players have signed American League contracts, and I am sure, but very few of these contracts will be repudiated. The players have about come to the conclusion that it is losing money to break contracts, and when once they have signed the necessary legal papers their services can be depended upon."

"The American League has certainly been liberal with salaries for next season, and I cannot see where any blame can be attached to a man who desires to secure the largest amount of money for his services. The courts have decided that the reserve clause is not binding, and that clause is only a thing of paper. If the National League player goes over to the opposition."

"If the Washington club has secured the signatures of Walter O'Connell, Ed. Carrick, Patten, Lee and Coughlin to contracts for next season, it certainly should be an easy matter to get a player to get a winning aggregation together. Of the old Washington players Grady, Clarke and Dungan look good, and another good man for the out and infield should make the Senators very strong."

"I can speak with certainty as regards the ability of O'Connell, Walter O'Connell and Carrick. O'Connell is still one of the best twirlers in the business, and Carrick is up to the standard he maintained last year before last, when I batted against him, the Washington Club has three of the best twirlers in the business. Of the outfield I can say nothing, as I haven't faced their delivery. Wolverton was injured last season, but surely a way is not to impair his usefulness next year. He played in several games before the season closed, and he put up the same good game he did when he helped to put the Phillies in the race. He can play any infield position, and the chances are that he will go to second base next year, as he is a good fielder."

"It was an astonishing piece of news that came to me in New York that Mr. Manning had hit the same bat in the Washington people will also find a good man, and I am sure he will get winning hits. I have known Manning for many years, and the American League lost one of the ablest managers in the business when he decided to quit."

When pressed for a direct answer as to whether he would be with Washington next season, Delehanty said: "Just tell them I haven't signed for next season and that I don't know where I will play."

HOLDS WHITE HAND.

Freedman Slated to Jump to American League Next Month.

In spite of all the talk about the American Base Ball League having made arrangements to enter New York city, it is certain that the team that is to be formed will not move into the city until the club there on any known grounds. It is denied in New York that the lot at 50th street and 10th avenue has been leased. This comes, according to New York papers, from the persons who control the land there.

President Ban B. Johnson and his colleagues of the American are now looking forward to the National League meeting next month, when, it is believed, a split may occur.

The ten-year agreement has expired, and the probable program, as surmised by those who hope for disruption in the National, is that Freedman will order things around and demand a lot of hard conditions before he will consent to a renewal of the agreement.

Then, it is supposed, some of the delegates will kick over the traces and refuse to pull.

Freedman, on the other hand, may jump to the American League as the result of seeing two strings in his bow, and the American will be in New York for good, thus completing a first-class circuit.

FINDLAY DOUGLAS BEATEN.

Defeated by Daniel Channey on the Dyker Meadow Links.

For the first time since his arrival in this country, in 1897, Findlay Douglas, holder of the national championship in 1898 and winner of the metropolitan title, the player of the
